All proceeds go to teachers

Help us by writing a review about our goals & progress.

I know it's hard to do, but can you imagine what it would be like if there were no teachers? Think of how your world would change if you suddenly couldn't read or write. Luckily, we have teachers and they need our support. You are able to read this newsletter, because of a teacher. A teacher prepares their students for life, for college. A teacher is also a counselor and a giver. Aid of Educators, in a small way, wants to directly give back to our newer teachers or teachers with less fortunate students.

The new school has started and teachers have received OfficeMax or Staples gift cards. Aid for Educators has awarded $200 gift cards to new teachers.

16 Classroom Supplies You Won't Believe Teachers Have To Pay For

Here are 10 misconceptions about teachers and teaching:

1. Those who can't do, teach.
2. A teacher's day ends at 3 p.m.
3. Teachers get their summers off.
4. If teachers are good at what they do, student grades and test scores will be good, too.
5. Teaching is easy, and anyone can do it.
6. Teachers are solely responsible for learning.
7. If you went to school, you know what teaching is.
8. Teachers are well-compensated for what they do.
9. Teachers aren't as good as they used to be.
10. Teachers are all the same.

Other Ways to Help Our Teachers

Aid for Educators is investigating other ways to aid our teachers besides donating supplies. One idea being considered is to be a teacher advocate. This would entail collaborating with district administration and trustees regarding confidential teacher concerns.

These concerns include:

- District policies - How they are affecting teaching and students.
- Meetings - Teachers having to attend with no meaningful purpose.
- Stress – Teachers experience more stress outside the classroom.
- Supervisors – Ability to manage and concern for students.

A4E would like to hear your comments about being an advocate for our teachers. admin@aid4edu.org
